Come participate in a workshop you will never forget! This interactive exercise, facilitated by Alliance's Legislative Liaison, Emma Hudson, includes a personal quiz to determine your Colorful Communication Style as well as group exercises to help you become a powerful communicator both at work and at home. Although there are countless ways to explain our behaviors and personalities, the Colorful Communication model is one of the easiest to remember and most fun to apply! This workshop will open up lines of communication by helping you unravel the communication patterns of yourself and others. You will explore how each Colorful Communication Style approaches communication, including their motivations, frustrations, and how to recognize a certain communication style during conversation. This memorable and useful tool will not disappoint!

What are people saying about the workshop?

"I've attended communications workshops before, but never one as dynamic, useful and fun as this one!"

"After participating in Emma's workshop, my boss and I were finally able to have a worthwhile chat about what we could each do to help each other communicate more effectively. This was long overdue! I wish I had attended this workshop years ago!"

"Emma is an incredible presenter – this tool completely changed how I interact with both my daughter and husband."
